Cumberland Planning Bd. Protests Condemnation Of 4.69 Acres Of County Land

The Cumberland Twp. Planning Board has protested the federal government's decision to condemn 4.69 acres of land in the township for construction of an Army Reserve Center.

A letter to U. S. Attorney Daniel H. Jenkins at Scranton, has been sent by the commission declaring that a more suitable site can be selected for the Reserve Center on present federal-owned land.

To condemn the 4.62 acres of land along the Fairfield road owned by Ralph C. Deatrick would restrict or destroy two potential real estate developments in Cumberland Twp. by eliminating a possible means of access or egress to the state highway from the developments, according to the letter sent by John D. Teeter, Charles Garland, Fred Green, Paul B. Knox and Col. Thomas Nixon.

Cite Other Land

In its letter the board states "The United States Government already owns land in Cumberland township in very close proximity to the proposed site of condemnation, which land is not being used for any worthwhile purpose at the present time and is as suitable, if not more suitable, for an Army Reserve Center than the land which has been condemned. This results in double hardship to taxpayers — the taxpayers have to pay for the new land upon which they lose a potential source of new tax revenue and nothing profitable is being done with the other land where the taxpayers are also losing potential tax revenue. The site which we believe is readily adaptable to an Army Reserve Center is the abandoned CCC Camp located on Confederate Avenue. If a new building must be erected, certainly there is an inconspicuous site somewhere in the thousands of acres of government owned land where this can be done without condemning new land and involving additional expense."

Areas Are Desirable

In declaring that the proposed site on the Deatrick land will prevent developments there, the planning commission wrote:

FOG SOUNDS FIVE SIRENS

Adams County's "quick call" system had a "50 per cent" score overnight.

At 5:45 o'clock Thursday evening it worked perfectly to summon Barlow Fire Company to a chimney fire at the home of Kenneth Copenhaver on the Bush Horner property.

At about 1 o'clock this morning the system sounded a "false alarm," setting off sirens at Benderville, Aspers, Barlow, Cone-wago and Midway.

The first warning Murray Wentz, on duty at the central station in the engine house, had of the siren sounding came when the various companies called in for instruction on the location of the fire to which they had been summoned. Wentz had no instructions, he had not sounded an alarm.

Electricians said the damp weather apparently caused short circuits which had sounded the alarms. Efforts are to be made to provide some type of shielding to prevent future false alarms.

Raymond Menges, chairman of the "quick call" committee, said radio men said because of weather conditions sound waves traveled further than usual. He added that a siren set off in another state or by a nearby company could have sent its waves to Gettysburg causing the unusual disturbance.

Insurgents Take Virtual Control Of Algiers When 2 French Leaders Depart

By ANDREW BOROWIEC
ALGIERS (AP)—French insurgents virtually took over Algiers today in their battle to keep Algeria French.

The Moslem rebel leadership, fighting for independence, mustered its forces for a showdown.

In between the two contending forces, President Charles de Gaulle strove to make his prestige felt and regain control of a situation that threatens his government and its tenuous hold on this strategic North African area.

The rebel government-in-exile called via Radio Tunis for Moslems in the 500,000-man French army to desert to the nationalist guerrilla forces. It urged the nine million Moslem civilians, wooed by both De Gaulle and his rightist French foes, to sit tight for the present.

At the same time the nationalist command, pursuing its five-year war for independence from France, ordered all rebel army units to remain vigilant "in case there is need to protect the civil population of Algiers, or in case there is an attack by the insurgents."

COLONEL NYE CLAIMS MEADE, SICKLES ERRED

"To a certain extent both Sickles and Meade were right and in other ways both were wrong," Col. Wilbur S. Nye, Harrisburg, declared following a panel discussion on the Meade-Sickles controversy at a meeting of the Gettysburg Civil War Round Table in the GAR rooms, E. Middle St., Thursday evening.

Colonel Nye, an infantry officer, historian and an editor of Civil War and military books for the Stackpole Press at Harrisburg, was the moderator. Robert Fidler, Gettysburg High School teacher and battlefield guide, and Harmon Furney, battlefield guide and post office employee, represented the Meade side of the controversy. G. Henry Roth and William Shoemaker represented Sickles' argument in the conflict over whether Sickles should have moved his troops forward to the Peach Orchard and Emmitsburg Rd. on the afternoon of July 2, 1863.

Fidler and Furney said that Meade had given a specific line for Sickles to place his Third Corps and had he followed that line, approximately along the present avenue to Little Round Top, the losses sustained by the Third Corps would not have occurred and Longstreet's Confederate forces, moving along the Emmitsburg Rd., would have been destroyed. Fidler claimed that Sickles, had he stayed along what is now the avenue, would have had a better field of fire for his cannon. While the cannon at some spots along the line selected by Sickles, such as the Peach Orchard, had a good field of fire, others located nearer Gettysburg along the Emmitsburg Rd. had "only a very short range of fire" because of the lay of the land.

Moving forward to the Emmitsburg Rd. also extended Sickles' line, thus cutting down the number of men per yard along the line.

Fidler claimed that Sickles in placing his troops on a line that ran along the Emmitsburg Rd. to the Peach Orchard then back to (Continued On Page 2)

Traffic Toll

CHICAGO (AP) — The price of traffic accidents in 1959 added up this way today:

Deaths: 37,800.
Disabling injuries: 1,400,000.

Cost: $5,800,000,000.

The National Safety Council, in totaling up the bill, found fatalities increased 800 over the 1958 total and disabling injuries rose 50,000.

While the council showed concern, it figured the two per cent rise in deaths was less than half of the five per cent gain in motor vehicle mileage.

Travel was estimated at a record-breaking 659 million miles in 1959.

2 NYC TRAINS SIDESWIPE IN PEA-SOUP FOG

WESTFIELD, N.Y. (AP)—Two New York Central trains sideswiped early today in a pea-soup fog for ten cars and three diesel engine units were derailed.

One woman suffered a wrist fracture and cuts, and two men were admitted to a hospital in this western New York village for observation. An expectant mother was examined and discharged.

The trains carried a total of 470 passengers.

W. T. Alexander Jr., general manager of the Central's western division, said the engineer of the New England States Express went through a stop signal and the train was derailed by the 20th Century Limited. Both trains, eastbound from Chicago, were moving slowly.

No Cars Overturned

A railroad spokesman said none of the derailed cars or the engine units overturned. Traffic was blocked on both main-line tracks. The accident occurred a quarter of a mile west of this Lake Erie community and 60 miles southwest of Buffalo.

The New England States with 28 cars carried 284 passengers, and the 20th Century with 17 cars carried 186.

The fog cut visibility to zero.

The 20th Century, the faster of the two trains, had been ordered to pass the New England States at a crossover, the railroad spokesman said.

Mrs. Dwight Stiles, 61, of Chicago, was treated at Westfield Memorial for a fracture of the right wrist and lacerations of the right ear. She was dismissed.

Sydney J. Harris, 69, of Redondo Beach, Calif., was held at the hospital for observation.

A second man, identified only as a Mr. Silva, also was admitted for observation.

CUT IN BUDGET MAY AFFECT SPACE PLANS

WASHINGTON (AP)—American space efforts after a year or two may feel the pinch of an administration cutback of 132 million dollars in the new budget, space officials say.

Disclosure of the slash in requested funds was made Thursday by officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration under questioning by the House Space Committee.

Richard E. Horner, an associate administrator of NASA, testified the reduced budget meant that work in advanced technology and supporting research was being curtailed, construction of new facilities was being put off and staff expansion postponed.

Pair Agree

But Horner and Dr. Hugh L. Dryden, deputy administrator of NASA, insisted that the cut in funds would not affect such major projects as the man-in-space program and the gradually accelerating program of space probes set for the next few years.

Asked if NASA could make more progress if it had more money Dryden replied:

"Not in the next year or two. But it could affect things down the road."

He reported NASA requested 957 million dollars. When the budget was drawn it was given 802 million dollars. In addition, however, it is receiving 23 million dollars in a carryover payment from the current fiscal year, making 825 million dollars actually available to it.

1ST DECISION UNDER LAW ON SPLIT VERDICT

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A jury has returned the first punishment penalty under Pennsylvania's new "split verdict" law.

The jury of eight women and four men convicted Thomas Felder, 24, of first degree murder Thursday. It then heard a recital of Felder's police record and background, and retired again to fix the penalty—life imprisonment. In Pennsylvania, juries returning first degree murder convictions must recommend either death or life imprisonment. This recommendation is binding on the trial judge.

Avoid Prejudice

But, until last Dec. 1, juries did everything at one sitting and came back to the courtroom with both the guilty verdict and the penalty.

This meant the jury got the defendant's police record, if any, and other background bearing on punishment—but not guilt or innocence—before the trial ended.

The new law stemmed from the belief such knowledge tended to prejudice the jurors in their deliberation of guilt or innocence.

Fatal Beating Case

Felder was convicted for the fatal beating of Albert J. Wahl, manager of an American Stores Co. Supermarket, during a holdup in January 1958.

It was his second trial. At his first, in October, 1958, he was sentenced to death. But he won a new trial on the ground the prosecutor made a prejudicial statement to the jury.

2 FISHERMEN DIE IN EFFORT TO AID 4 MEN

WESTPORT, Wash. (AP)—Tradition was tempered with tragedy for a fishing boat and two of its three crewmen on the storm-tossed Pacific Ocean off the southwest Washington coast Thursday night.

The fishermen stayed in dangerous, turbulent waters to aid four Coast Guardsmen in a disabled patrol boat. The fishing boat sank. Two of its crewmen vanished into the churning sea.

The drama began when the fishing vessel Barbara Lee called for help to get through huge swells at the narrow entrance to Grays Harbor. All day, winds up to 55 miles an hour had raked the coast.

Coast Guard Aid The Coast Guard sent the 52-foot patrol boat Invincible to guide the fishing boat across the bar. It was a familiar procedure; the Grays Harbor Bar is treacherous for small craft at all times.

Suddenly, a monstrous wave knocked the Invincible bottom-side up. The boat slowly righted, but its engines were dead. One of the four men aboard took a bad cut.

The 30-foot Barbara Lee stood by in the rain and wind. It threw a line aboard the Invincible. The line broke. It tried to attach another.

Then a mountain of water engulfed the Barbara Lee.

COLONEL NYE

Roth Quotes Sickness

Roth quoted Sickness' explanation of why he moved his troops forward, as contained in his speech at the Third Corps reunion here in 1886, and as given to a newspaper reported during a visit to the battlefield in 1882 and as contained in the "Historicus" letter appearing in 1884 in the New York Herald and purportedly written by Sickness. The general said that he moved "to the high ground," fearing that his troops would be at a disadvantage "on the low ground," indicated as the line by Meade. Sickness also claimed that he wanted Meade to look over the disposition of the Third Corps and that Meade had sent Hunt to look over the area and that Hunt agreed to the forward movement of the Third Corps.

Shoemaker said that Sickness was "not a West Pointer and knew nothing of the military theory of the day," that he was "a general of the type of Sherman and Grant whose idea was to take the fight to the enemy." He said that Sickness' forward movement upset Longstreet's calculations because "it was not the thing done and he smelled a trap. As a result of the second day's fight the Confederates were badly mauled and their coordination thrown out of kilter both on the second and third of July."

CUB AWARDS PRESENTED AT FAIRFIELD

Fairfield Cubs and their parents met Thursday evening at St. Mary's hall in Fairfield with 72 present when new Cub and den mothers were introduced and awards presented.

Cubmaster Carl Filsinger Jr. was in charge of the program that opened with a pledge of allegiance led by Jack Inskip and Stephen Weikert. "Reunion" night was observed and 10 former Cubs and one former den mother were among those present.

These new den mothers were introduced: Cashtown, Mrs. Marie Kuhn and Mrs. Helen Kuhn, and Fairfield, Mrs. Thomas Newman and Miss Sarah Miller. These new Cubs were presented with Bobcat pins, David Pickering, David Kuhn, Stephen Timlin and James Benner.

Awards Presented

These cubbing awards were handed out: Thomas Kuhn, Bear badge; Roger Benner, Webelos; Stephen Weikert, gold and silver arrows; Charles Carbaugh, bear badge and gold and silver arrows; David Barkley and William Hartman, silver arrows.

Assistant Cubmaster Paul Crist reviewed Cubbing activities and noted that, of the 10 original den mothers enrolled when Cubbing started in Fairfield in 1956, four are still serving. They are Mrs. Kermit Spence, Mrs. Francis Schultz, Mrs. Paul Crist and Mrs. Leila Willet. He also called attention to plans for observance of the 50th anniversary of Boy Scouting February 7 to 13. Plans are being made for a Cub window display that week at Newman's "Superette." Cubs were urged to attend the church of their choice in uniform on February 7.

It was announced that the annual Blue and Gold banquet will be held Thursday, February 23, in the Fairfield High School cafeteria. Plans also were announced for another paper drive Saturday, February 27, and it was decided to hold future paper drives on the fourth Saturdays of alternate months.

There was a display of achievement projects at Thursday's meeting including a number of father and son undertakings. In January the Cub theme was "science." The use of the hall for Thursday's meeting was donated by St. Mary's Church.

STOCKS SAG

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was down again slightly in routine trading early this afternoon.

Losses of fractions to a point or so prevailed among key stocks. A feeble recovery drive in mid-morning came to nothing and prices entered a general decline. As some interest rates were declining, the market was no longer dominated by tight money fears, brokers said. The stock market continued to be in the grip of a mainly technical reaction, despite many favorable earnings reports and boosts in dividends.

Cumberland

"These areas are highly desirable because they are served by city water lines. They also represent in excess of 200 acres of land and are contiguous to existing residential developments."

"While the site is close to a manufacturing location, it is also in the most heavily developed area of the township and one that is growing by leaps and bounds. If a zoning ordinance is enacted in the township (and we are in the process of developing such an ordinance), this particular site would be zoned for residential purposes."

The letter concluded: "The unnecessary condemnation of land by the government in this manner without consulting township authorities and without any regard for the future development of Cumberland Township makes township planning difficult, if not impossible, and does nothing to promote cooperation between the local officials and the United States Government at a time when such cooperation is most desirable to protect the interests of the United States Government as well as the township."

"We, therefore, strenuously object to the condemnation . . . and respectfully request that the United States Government reconsider its position in this matter so as not to aggravate an already dangerous situation in Cumberland Township, Adams County, Pennsylvania."

The Adams County commissioners, Cumberland Twp. supervisors, and Deatrick are reported considering protesting the planned condemnation.

NO DECISION

hower School was 3½ per cent and Mt. Joy directors said Forner's fee for the new Littlestown High School on which bids soon will be opened is five per cent.

One school director expressed the opinion that he does not think the selection of the architect should be made on the basis of the fee to be charged.

The finance and planning committee is expected to narrow the field below the present bidders but discussion Thursday evening indicated that it may not make a single selection but submit several firms to the board with the final selection to be made by the joint board.

To Start Room Schedule

Superintendent of Schools H. Edgar Riegle told the directors Thursday evening he has a Tuesday appointment to go to Harrisburg to begin work on the room schedule for the new school annex.

Previous conferences at Harrisburg have brought state recommendations that a senior high school "annex" be erected here to accommodate 600 pupils. The "annex" might or might not be connected to the present structure and its site has not been determined.

There was certainly Thursday evening as to whether the finance and planning committee recommendation can be ready for the regular February meeting of the joint board on February 8. If not, the decision on the architect may be delayed until March 14.

Twenty-six of the 37 directors were present for all or part of the meeting. The 11 absentees were: Cumberland, Richard Schultz; Franklin, John Biesecker, Harry Hall and Charles Bowman; Freedom, John W. Woods; Gettysburg, Mrs. M. H. Nichols and E. B. Bullett; Mt. Joy, Charles Rohrbach and Stanley Wolf, and Straban, Herbert Blye and Levi Spangler.

How wonderful is a mood — but how much more wonderful are a dozen moods!

What would we do without our moods? Probably the most interesting person in all this world is a person whose moods

I like to think of a mood as an impulse — a special inspiration — to be taken at its flood and pushed on to its own individual fortune. Most of the great things in our world were done while our hearts were "in the mood."

Did you ever hear of anybody doing anything really worth while when he or she wasn't "in the mood?"

I love a mountain range because it is to me the earth in a series of marvelous moods every single one of them interesting and uplifting.

Do not allow yourself to feel discouraged because of your moods and negative people don't understand them. As a matter of fact, very few people understand any person who is a child of moods — because such people are always the most unusual. And it takes unusual people to understand and unusual people.

It is the artist whose soul is stirred at the uncomparative sunset.

Have all the moods you want? But so train yourself that each separate mood brightens and enlivens your personality and makes of it a compact thing — a thing of service.

Live off your moods!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject "Never Arrive Late."

ACCORDING TO

BOYLE, KISSING

IS A LOST ART

BY HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Kissing has become a lost art in America. It began to decline the year we turned 40 and has plunged downhill rapidly ever since.

Every man's kissing history is roughly the same. It begins as an ordeal, gradually becomes a pleasure and a joy, and winds up as a form of feminine insult.

The ordeal time is when you are an infant. Then you are at the mercy of every loving, mouthed aunt.

Kissing isn't much better when you first start school. Big girls in kindergarten develop a mania for chasing smaller boys throwing them on the ground and kissing them. The whole business seems pretty silly to the boy.

But by the time a fellow gets into high school he develops a sudden interest in the matter. He discovers kissing is not only bearable, it can become a form of mutual fun.

Through college and up to his 40th birthday a fellow enjoys kissing as a mainly art — particularly when strange girls at cocktail parties come up and buss him unexpectedly — because this makes his wife so jealous.

But by the time he is 45 the situation has changed dramatically. He overhears his wife whispering to some sweet young thing at a party "Why don't you go up and surprise my husband with a kiss?" The poor thing. He doesn't have much fun anymore.

Even worse are the wives of friends who in the old days used to like to lure you into the pantry at neighborhood parties for a bit of innocent necking. After 45 they become lips that pass in the night.

As you step up to kiss them, fondly remembering the days of yore, they turn at the last moment and give you a quick absent-minded peck on the cheek.

That is the worst insult of all to a middle-aged man — to be kissed on the cheek by another man's middle-aged wife.

Here you are certainly entitled to revenge.

Height Advice
If she is smaller than you, stand on tiptoe so that she kisses you on your Adam's apple instead of your cheek.

But no matter what you do you might as well face up to it. Kissing has become a lost art in America — at least as far as you can determine.

TOKYO (AP) — Red China's Foreign Minister Chen Yi was quoted by a high-ranking Japanese politician Thursday as saying Peking will never use force against Formosa.

"We will never fight with Taiwan (Formosa) again because we don't believe in settling disputes with force," Kenzo Matsumura, a leading figure in Japan's ruling party, quoted Chen Yi as saying.

Matsumura met Chen Yi during an October-to-December tour of the Chinese mainland last year. He reported on the talk with Chen Yi in an interview in the weekly Asahi.

Chen Yi expressed the conviction that in three to five years Formosa will "surely come begging to join us," and the Chinese Communists could afford to wait, Matsumura said.

SHIPBUILDERS

OUT ON STRIKE

NEW YORK (AP) — More than 17,000 shipbuilders union members were on strike Thursday against all of the Bethlehem Steel Co. plants on the eastern seaboard.

Eight shipyards and a nuclear research center are struck.

Construction, conversion and repair jobs are affected.

The strike spread last night to six of the shipyards. Three are in New York City, two of them in Brooklyn and one on Staten Island. The three others are at Sparrows Point, Md., Baltimore, Md., and East Boston, Mass.

The strike started last weekend at shipyards at Quincy, Mass., and Hooker, N. J., and Bethlehem's nuclear research center at West Milton, N. Y.

A union statement said on billion dollars worth of work was halted last weekend and another billion dollars worth was halted last night.

Among the jobs on which work is stalled is construction of nuclear-powered Navy craft at the Quincy yard.

The strikers are members of the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America.

Four Killed In Refinery Blast

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Three big gasoline tanks exploded and burned at a government refinery in a northern suburb Thursday, killing 4 workmen and causing injuries to 34.

The refinery is a big modern plant owned by Petroleos de Mexico, the government monopoly. It is in Atzacotalco, several miles north of the city.

Early report giving the casualties said 14 of the 34 injured were in serious conditions. Some closed the area to outsiders and refused newsmen and photographers access to the plant.

How wonderful is a mood — but how much more wonderful are a dozen moods!

What would we do without our moods? Probably the most interesting person in all this world is a person whose moods

I like to think of a mood as an impulse — a special inspiration — to be taken at its flood and pushed on to its own individual fortune. Most of the great things in our world were done while our hearts were "in the mood."

Did you ever hear of anybody doing anything really worth while when he or she wasn't "in the mood?"

I love a mountain range because it is to me the earth in a series of marvelous moods every single one of them interesting and uplifting.

Do not allow yourself to feel discouraged because of your moods and negative people don't understand them. As a matter of fact, very few people understand any person who is a child of moods — because such people are always the most unusual. And it takes unusual people to understand and unusual people.

It is the artist whose soul is stirred at the uncomparative sunset.

Have all the moods you want? But so train yourself that each separate mood brightens and enlivens your personality and makes of it a compact thing — a thing of service.

Live off your moods!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject "Never Arrive Late."

Have a... the moods you want? But so train yourself that each separate mood brightens and enlivens your personality and makes of it a compact thing — a thing of service.

Live off your moods!

Bison-Bullet Tilt Here Saturday For Benefit Of March Of Dimes Fund

Coach Ben Kribbs and his Bucknell University Bison will invade Eddie Plank Memorial Gym Saturday night at 8:30 to meet the Gettysburg Bullets in what promises to be a top notch Middle Atlantic Conference basketball game. There will be no preliminary game.

All proceeds will be turned over to the March of Dimes Fund. Inasmuch as practically the entire student body will be home for the mid-semester recess, approximately 1,000 general admission seats will be available to the public.

Public Gets Break
In recent years when games were played while the student body was absent, large crowds took advantage of being able to secure seats—and another big turnout is anticipated Saturday to see the old rivals tangle.

The Bullets will be out to avenge an 80-71 setback at Lewisburg on December 12. Both teams have been idle since January 16 for semester examinations. Bucknell will open the second half of its season tonight against George Washington in Ft. Myers, Va.

Bison Starters
Pacing the Bison attack will be two outstanding cagers. Veteran Tommy Tompkins, Kane, is an excellent ball handler and top playmaker. He is averaging 15.5 points per game on 73 goals and 40 fouls for 186 points. Sophomore Joe Steiner, Punxsutawney, 6'4 forward, is currently setting the pace with a 17.3 average. Steiner is also a leading rebounder with 164 in 11 games for 14.9 per cent.

Rounding out the remainder of the Bison starting team will be Bruce Babich, East Rockaway, N. Y., a 6'3 junior; center Dave Evans, Lakewood, Ohio, 6'4; and 6'3 Mike Fadden, a sophomore from Ocean City, N. J. Those who will be counted on to back up the starting five will be Mike Kasmick, Central City, 5'11, Don Lampus, Springfield, 6'5, and Pete Matz, Fanwood, N. J., 5'11.

Coach Bob Hulton will stick with his regular starting five: Bullets: Bob Parker and Ron Warner, sophomore backcourt men, Bill Fitzkee, junior center; Bill Hemming, junior forward, and George Burnett, sophomore forward.

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—A circuit court suit claims the Milwaukee Braves' Henry Aaron has failed to pay the first two months rent on a Mobile building he leased late last year.

The action, filed Thursday, asks $12,000 damages on the grounds Aaron is liable for the entire amount of the five year lease. It says he agreed to pay $200 a month.

He leased the building for the purpose of opening a men's clothing store. His home is in Mobile.

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP)—Inge-Marc Johansson is no match for Rocky Marciano — on the golf course.

Marciano, undefeated ex-heavyweight champion, won five of nine holes they played and carded 48 to Ingo's 57 in an exhibition match Thursday at the Hollywood Sports Festival.

Delone Cagers Here Tonight For Two Games

A repeat win over Delone will be the goal of the Gettysburg High Cagers when they meet the Squires here this evening. The Warriors nipped Delone 52-50 at McSherrytown earlier in the season after a hard fought battle and anticipate an equally tough assignment tonight.

The reserve teams will meet in the preliminary at 6:45. Gettysburg Junior High journeys to Washington Township for a South Penn League doubleheader.

Favor Scott To Win Over Paret

NEW YORK (AP)—Benny (Kid) Paret is confident he will make it two straight over high-ranking Charley Scott tonight.

They meet in a return television (NBC 10 p.m., EST) 10-round fight at Madison Square Garden. As a 3-1 underdog last Dec. 18, Paret, of Cuba, gave Scott a solid drubbing. Despite that victory, which included a 10th-round knockdown of the favorite, the muscular Cuban is an underdog again, this time at 7-5 odds.

It was a costly defeat for Scott. The hard-hitting welterweight was the No. 1 contender. Now he is ranked fourth by the NBA and Paret No. 6.

JEAN BELIVEAU GETS HIS 500TH

DETROIT (AP)—The folks in Victorville, Que., will be happy to know that Jean Beliveau is bringing home another souvenir for his trophy.

Back in 1956, townspeople gave the Montreal Canadian player a huge trophy, big enough for a dozen or so pucks to commemorate outstanding dates in his hockey career.

Beliveau's winning goal in Thursday night's 4-2 triumph over the Detroit Red Wings was the 500th point of his National Hockey League career, which began seven seasons ago. It came early in the final period, after the 28-year-old star had assisted on an earlier goal to run his league-leading point total to 64.

This will be the sixth puck added to the trophy. Others mark his first goal, his 100th, etc. Henri (Pocket Rocket) Richard shared the limelight with Beliveau in the victory. He popped in a pair of goals, pulling his club into a tie with the goal in the last six seconds of the middle period, then added an insurance tally in the final four minutes of the game.

The English Houses of Parliament were designed by Sir Charles Barry.

JUNIORS PLAY AT DUNEDIN

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP)—The "juniors" returned to action in the 21st annual PGA Golf Senior Championship today and they'll be hard-pressed to match the finish their elders put on in the second round of competition.

The juniors are contenders in the 50-54 age bracket. And they start their second round today with Leland Gibson of Kansas City and Charles Sheppard of Highland Park, Ill., sharing a precarious one-stroke lead. Each had a 4-under-par 68.

The 55-and-over players completed competition Thursday with the exception of those whose 36-hole scores are low enough to qualify for the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday.

The field Thursday was competing for the Alfred K. Bourne Trophy, awarded the low 36-hole scorer in the older group. The prize went to Al Watrous, 60, Birmingham, Mich., who beat Tony Longo, Clark's Summit, Pa. Mortie Dier of Jackson, Mich., Joe Muzel Hill Brae, Calif., and Billy Burke, Cleveland in an extra-hole match.

ROBERTSON TO TRY FOR NEW MARK TONIGHT

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer
Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson comes back tonight to try again to break the three-year scoring record for major college basketball players set by Furman's Frank Selvy in 1954.

This time, All-America Oscar needs but to match his season average of 36.3 to be sure of cracking the mark, left at 3,538 points when Selvy wound up his 78-game varsity career. With 2,506 points in 73 games, Oscar needs 3 to set a new three-year mark.

The Citadel, with a 10-4 record and a six-game winning streak, furnishes the Cincinnati opposition tonight, but the Bearcats and Big O will have the advantage of the home court.

Cinch For Records
With at least 11 games left for the Bearcats, Robertson's a cinch to break both marks if he stays healthy.

While the accountants were busy figuring all that out, high-ranked Toledo, St. John's (N.Y.) and Memphis State were scoring important victories Thursday night.

Toledo, leading the Mid-American Conference, ran its record to 12-2 with a comeback 48-46 overtime victory over touring Virginia Tech.

St. John's young team, starting to jell after a shaky start, ran its record to 9-5 with a 69-63 victory over Marquette at Milwaukee as Tony Jackson scored 24 points and Willie Hall 17. Memphis State, now 12-2, hit 46 per cent and out-rebounded the Crimson 43-15 in a 63-37 rout of Alabama.

PIAA PROBE TO BE DECIDED NEXT WEEK

By FRED WALTERS
HARRISBURG (AP)—A final decision is expected next week on whether the Legislature will investigate the PIAA. Prospects are it won't.

The investigation was directed by the House in a resolution adopted last September. But time and circumstances are against its being carried out.

The proposal was made last March when none of the regional basketball playoffs were held at the Farm Show Arena here where the state installed new basketball facilities.

Other Jobs Waiting
By the time the resolution was adopted, however, the PIAA was ready with plans to use the arena for this year's playoffs, including the Class A state final. That took a lot of steam out of the proposed investigation.

The Joint State Government Commission — the agency which conducts studies for the Legislature — has 32 other studies to consider as directed by the House and Senate.

Normally, only about a dozen are undertaken after any one session.

Meet On Tuesday
This year, because of the late closing of the 1959 session and the fact the Legislature is back under the new annual sessions change in the Constitution, the probability is that it will undertake fewer than usual.

The commission's executive committee will meet next Tuesday to sift through the proposed studies and decide with which to proceed. The committee is made up of legislative leaders.

Rep. Stephen McCann, House Democratic leader, said he would vote for an investigation of the PIAA but has found little sentiment for it among the other members.

Biglerville-YC Game Cancelled

Cancellation of the Biglerville-York Catholic High School basketball game, originally scheduled for tonight at York, was announced late Thursday afternoon.

The request for cancellation came from York officials as the result of the Crusaders being scheduled to meet Bishop McDevitt on the Camp Hill High School floor Saturday evening for the first half title of the Central Penn Catholic League York and McDevitt wound up in a first place tie on Tuesday.

Biglerville's next action will be with Carlisle at Biglerville on Tuesday when the second half race of the South Penn League begins.

DON FULLMER BEATS AKINS IN TEN ROUNDS

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer
ST. LOUIS (AP)—Take it from middleweight champ Don Fullmer, his kid brother Don looked good beating Virgil Atkins and "he's liable to force me into early retirement."

Don Fullmer, at 20 is eight years younger than the titleholder. Don's unanimous 10-round decision over 31-year-old but still dangerous Virgil Atkins Thursday night was the first big victory of his career.

Observers said Atkins fought possibly his best fight since losing the welterweight crown more than a year ago.

Fullmer weighed 155½, Atkins 153.
Don warded off the danger of Atkins' powerful long right by beating him to the punch with lefts. Twice he pulled Atkins to the ropes to pile up points.

Reopen Eye Cut
But Atkins came on strong in the last five rounds and could have won the fight by taking the last round. But Fullmer reopened a cut over Virgil's right eye and took the last round.

Judge Fred Connell gave Fullmer a 45-44 edge. Judge Howard Hess had Don on top 48-47 and Referee Jim Parker had it 50-44, Fullmer.

The victory was Don's 17th in 20 pro fights. He lost three split decisions.
"I had planned to stay champ five or six years. Now it looks as if Don will be ready for the title in three years."

FIGHT LOOMS OVER DALLAS IN GRID LOOP

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
DALLAS (AP)—Battle lines formed today between the budding American Football League and the long established National Football League, accused of attempting to perpetuate a monopoly by placing a competing franchise in Dallas.

Joe Foss, AFL commissioner, said he would go to Congress or the courts to prevent the NFL from "putting the AFL franchise out of business in Dallas. You have antitrust laws to take care of such situations."

As soon as the National Football League announced in Miami Thursday that Dallas was being taken in this year in competition with the Dallas AFL franchise owned by Lamar Hunt, Foss spoke out.

Cites Other Cases
The NFL chose to put another club in a one-team market and "definitely are out to continue their present monopoly of professional football," Foss said.

The Dallas NFL franchise is known as the Rangers, the AFL entry as the Texans.

The NFL has made capital of the fact that the AFL has franchises in Los Angeles and New York in competition with NFL clubs. But Foss said the cases are not similar.

"Dallas is not big enough—with one million in the area—to support two teams," he claimed. "Los Angeles and New York are."

WARNER 4TH IN MAC CAGE LOOP SCORING

Lehigh's Norm Brandt has taken over the lead in individual scoring in the Middle Atlantic Conference's university division. Brandt's 26.5 point per game average tops the 25.7 point figures posted by Bob Alden of LaSalle.

La Salle and St. Joseph's share the lead for the division title, each with 3.0 conference records.

The La Salle Explorers are currently setting the pace in offense, with an average of 83.7 points a game, and in defense, allowing only 63 points a game to be scored against them.

Bullets Best Shooters
Gettysburg, ranking fourth in the conference race, has proved the most accurate in field goal shooting, connecting on 48.1 per cent of the shots from the floor. St. Joseph's players have scored on 87.8 per cent of their free throw attempts to lead in that department. The Hawks have collected an average of 56.3 rebounds a contest to head the rebound ranks also.

Morris Boyer of Lafayette continues to top the ranks in field goals. The Leopards ace has tallied on 26 of 35 field goal attempts for a 74.3 percentage.

Gettysburg's Bob Parker has strengthened his lead in the free throw department. Parker is 24-for-25 in conference competition with a percentage of 96.0.

A third university division player to repeat as a statistical leader is Bucknell's Joe Steiner. The sophomore ace has averaged 17.0 rebounds a game in four league contests.

Loy N. Orndorff, Littlestown R. 2, Owns Only Brown Swiss Herd In County

There are real Swiss bells adorning the cows at the farm of Loy N. Orndorff, Littlestown R. 2. The bells are a gift to Mr. and Mrs. Orndorff from their children in recognition of the only Brown Swiss herd in Adams County.

The bells are dated 1873 and are from Chantel, Fondeur, Switzerland. But the Orndorff herd dates only from 1947. Orndorff had a Brown Swiss in a herd near Abbottstown some time ago.

Since starting the present herd Orndorff has won many ribbons and concedes he finds pleasure in matching his Brown Swiss against other members of the breed. He points to Loyetta, in his herd, who was a grand champion at 16 months, and won honors at various shows, and "Nickey," that's her barn name, who has won grand championships in district shows and was "bell ringer" for Pennsylvania.

Five of the Orndorff herd hold "bell ringer" certificates from the National Brown Swiss association, as having been tops in the state in their classification.

Orndorff said he was looking for some new cows for his herd. He saw "three little animals" and had to ask what they were. He had never seen the type before. He was told they were Brown Swiss and the three calves were sold to him for $190.

They grew and won the heart of the Orndorff family. Now, neither Mr. nor Mrs. Orndorff will have any other breed. Their reason: the Brown Swiss is rugged, is just coming into its prime when other breeds are going out of production and — "they have a most gentle disposition."

34,000 DHIA COWS REMOVED DURING 1959

Nearly 34,000 DHIA cows were removed for various reasons during 1959. This is more than in any previous year, and represents a complete turnover every four to five years in Pennsylvania dairy herds.

Why were they removed? Over one third or 36 per cent went to butcher for low production. More dairymen were adopting the valuable slogan, "put out or get

Milking Habit Of Cow, Heifer Is Fixed Early

The milking habits of a cow or heifer are established early in the lactation and are hard to break. Because of this it is best to train the cow right and not have to retrain her in the middle of the lactation. In attempting to re-establish a good milking habit, many times milk production is lost and mastitis may result.

A cow is born with an ability to milk slow or fast. The only way to change a cow that has inherited a slow milking speed is to have the veterinarian cut the teat muscle to relax it. Any attempt to train an inherent slow milker to milk fast by altering the machine, or shortening the time it is left on her, will fail and may ruin her.

Know the cow, and be sure it is not the milker's fault she milks slow before training her to milk fast. If it is the dairyman's fault, then, with a little care, he may retrain her. However, it is best to try to retrain the cow at the beginning of new lactation.

It is important to teach a heifer that milking time is pleasant. The relief that comes from unloading the udder of 25 to 30 pounds of milk is great. But, if she is mistreated or hurt by the handler or the machine, the natural tendency to fight back crops out. This soon becomes a habit and one that lasts a long time and costs many dairymen money through veterinarian bills and less milk.

There are many standards for culling. Low production depends on the goals of the dairyman. One rule of thumb guide is that one half of the complete lactation will be produced in the first 120 days. Also the first calf heifer will produce approximately 70 per cent of what she will do as a mature cow. Several questions a dairyman should ask in culling are: will she be dry in four months or more?; does she have a record of mastitis?; and does she have a record of breeding trouble?

The large number of cows sold for low production suggests a challenge for continued improve-

Registered Herds Hold Performance Advantage

While the majority of the nation's dairy herds are composed of grade animals, it is significant to point out some of the achievements of the registered herds. Said Assistant County Agent John D. Naugle.

The registered animals appear to hold a substantial advantage in performance. In evaluating performance it is important to distinguish between the merits of the cows and the abilities of their owners to get maximum production from them. A summary of the DHIA records in the United States over an 11-year period shows the registered cow produced 23 pounds more fat than the grade animals. In addition, the registered animals returned $14 more income each than did the grades.

Command Higher Price
A nationwide survey by one of the major dairy breed registry organizations reveals that registered animals commanded higher prices at auction sales. Registered cows sold for $114 more than grades; bred heifers with papers brought $84 more than grades; open heifers that were registered were worth $66 more than grades, and registered heifer calves were bid off at $53 above the grades.

In classification and show ring the registered animals are the only ones it is open to. Registered herds are also a source of seed stock. If a registered herd that furnish the breeding stock that are used to improve the grade herds. The registered herds furnish sires for either artificial insemination or natural services and also females for up-grading and replacements.

TEDIOUS TASK TO BUILD HERD

Building the dairy herd is a tedious task. A few basic principles, properly followed, will help substantially, says County Agent Frank S. Zettie.

A dairyman should like cows and treat them gently, feed them well, and make sure they are comfortable and contented, he emphasizes. He must decide also on the breed he wants and establish goals of production and type for those cows. He must be determined to cull closely to achieve his goals.

The dairyman who keeps records knows what his herd is producing. He has his herd enrolled in a testing program, preferably DHIA, and also classifies his cows for type, either officially or unofficially. This dairyman also takes time to study his records and decide for himself which cows should be culled, what

Home Economist Claims Everyone Needs Milk To Sustain Bones And Teeth

By HELEN TUNISON
Home Economist

"Food is important in keeping our people and our country strong," wrote Secretary of Agriculture, Ezra Taft Benson. One of the most vital foods, milk, is called the "Perfect Food."

Everyone needs milk and this includes children, teen-agers, young adults and those over 65. Scientific research shows most clearly that the centuries-old habit of using milk and milk products is an excellent one. Three to four cups of milk for children, a quart or more for teen-agers and a pint or more for adults is the goal.

Not enough milk means your diet will be low in calcium, the mineral persons of all ages need to build and maintain strong bones and teeth, to help blood to clot, and to help the muscles and nerves react normally. To get the equivalent of calcium from other foods you would need 6 medium oranges. Other substitutes sound just as impossible.

Cheese, Ice Cream
Some cheeses and ice cream are a fair source of calcium, too. 1 1/2 oz. cheddar cheese, 1 1/4 cups of cottage cheese, 1 1/2 cups of ice cream provide the same amount of calcium as 1 cup of milk. 6 1/2 cups of raw cabbage will furnish as much calcium as one 8 oz. glass of milk, as will 11 eggs, 16 slices of white enriched bread or 22 baked potatoes.

In addition to calcium, 2 glasses of milk provide 25 per cent of the daily need for protein, 20 per cent of the daily requirement for Vitamin A, about 15 per cent of the thiamine need, almost half of the riboflavin need for the day, 10 per cent of iron, and also a boundless measure of energy through its carbohydrates.

In a recent survey by Pennsylvania State University, it was found that many adolescents refuse to drink enough milk. They did not drink sufficient milk because others in the group did not drink it, they considered milk a drink for children and they were eager to leave childhood behind, and that milk will add calories.

Girls Weight-conscious
Girls are especially weight-conscious in the teen-age years. The substitutes they select, soft drinks and coffee, are just as high in calories and also detrimental to the health.

Most men drink twice as much milk at their wives, yet the women have much more influence on their family's habits in the use of milk than their husbands. Wives need to set a good example for other members of the family by drinking at least a pint a day.

Milk In Meals
There are many ways to furnish the amount of milk each family changes in management practices will pay off and what bulls should be used to breed what cows. The true dairyman makes the most of the best by selecting his cows to mate to the best bulls available. He culls on the basis of sound information rather than sentiment and he grows his calves properly to get top replacements for top cows.

ily member needs through drinking the fresh fluid milk plain or flavored using milk with cereals and snacks, or in preparing milk-rich foods.

You can step up the amount of milk consumed by carefully planning the food you prepare to include milk. Dry non-fat milk can be substituted for the fluid in many of the recipes from main dishes to desserts.

To start a meal, try a soup.
Cream Of Green Vegetable Soup
1 tablespoon chopped onion; 1 tablespoon butter or margarine; 3 cups thin white sauce; 1/4 cup cooked spinach, broccoli or peas, chopped or pureed. Salt and pepper to taste. Cook onion in the fat until clear but not brown. Combine with white sauce and vegetable. Add salt and pepper. Heat. Serve promptly. Four servings.

For a main dish that combines milk and cheese for added calcium and other nutrients —

Cheese Fondue
4 eggs, well beaten; 2 cups hot milk; 2 cups soft bread crumbs; 1/2 pound cheese, shredded (2 cups); 1/4 teaspoon salt. Combine all the ingredients. Pour into a greased baking dish and bake at 350 degrees F. (moderate oven) for about 40 minutes — or until set and lightly browned on top. Serve at once. Six servings.

Creamy oven potatoes are a different way to re-use potatoes.

Creamy Oven Potatoes
4 potatoes; 1 onion; 2 tablespoons chopped fresh parsley; 2 tablespoons butter; 2 tablespoons flour; 1/2 teaspoon salt; 1 cup milk. Start oven heating to 350 degrees. Grease casserole. Pare potatoes and dice into 1/2 inch cubes. Heat 1 cup water to boiling. Add 1/2 teaspoon salt. Drop in potato cubes and boil gently 10 minutes. Chop onion and parsley. Prepare white sauce. Melt butter in saucepan over low heat. Remove from heat. Add flour and salt and mix well. Pour in about half of milk. Mix well. Return pan to low heat. Add remaining milk, stirring constantly. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until sauce thickens and begins to boil. Place potatoes, parsley and onions in greased casserole. Pour sauce over all. Bake at 350 degrees F. (moderate oven) 35 to 40 minutes.

A dessert that is easy to make and tastes so good is

Baked Custard
1/4 cup sugar; 1/4 teaspoon salt; 3 eggs, beaten; 2 cups hot milk; 1 teaspoon vanilla. Combine sugar, salt and eggs. Add milk slowly; add vanilla. Pour into custard cups, and set in a pan of hot water. Bake at 325 degrees F. (slow oven) until custard is set — 30 to 40 minutes. Sprinkle with nutmeg, coconut, or slivers of chocolate. Four servings.

Another dessert that may be new to you and would increase the milk your family obtains is 1 unbaked 9 inch pastry shell; 1/2 cups cottage cheese; 3 egg yolks; 1/4 cup granulated sugar; 3 tablespoons all-purpose flour; 1 teaspoon salt; 1/4 cup undrained evaporated milk (1 small can); 1/4 teaspoon vanilla; 1 tablespoon lemon juice; 3 egg whites, beaten.

Press cheese through sieve or beat with electric mixer until smooth. Add egg yolks to cottage cheese and beat well. Combine sugar, flour and salt. Add to cottage cheese mixture. Beat until smooth. Beat in evaporated milk and vanilla. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Fold into cheese mixture. Pour into unbaked pastry shell. Sprinkle lightly with nutmeg. Bake 10 minutes at 400 degrees. Reduce oven temperature to 350 degrees and bake 30 minutes longer or until firm. Cool and then refrigerate. Serve cold. This pie is similar to some cheese cakes.

Andrew Martin, R. 5, Credits Success Of His Holstein Herd To Good Breeding; Produced 20,776 Lbs. Milk

The records of the Adams County Dairy Herd Improvement Association tell the story.

In 1959 the top cow in the DHIA was "Daisy," a five-year-old Holstein in the herd of Andrew Martin, Gettysburg R. 5. Its record in 305 days was 20,776 pounds of milk, 767 pounds of butterfat.

That made "Daisy" the top cow in butter-fat and the top cow in milk production running far ahead of any competition.

Next in line on butterfat production was Decie, of the herd of Andrew Martin, a Holstein almost eight years old who produced 19,648 pounds of milk and 708 pounds of butterfat in 305 days. Her milk production made her 17th in the top ten of milk production.

Seventh among the top ten in butterfat production was Priety of the Holstein herd of Andrew Martin, producing 18,143 pounds of milk and 672 pounds of butterfat. Priety was also eighth in milk production among the nearly 1,200 cows on test in the DHIA.

Cites Good Breeding

Martin says the success of his herd is based on good breeding, management, feeding and making the cows comfortable. He admits that it was not always thus in the Martin herd. Not one cow that was in the herd in 1951 is still there. But a number of the offspring of the original herd are still in the present day dairy cattle list at the Martin barn.

The herd had been mixed and some of the cows were not producing too well when the Martins

Andrew Martin, Gettysburg R. 5, is shown with "Daisy," a Holstein which won the top honors in Adams County last year for both milk and butterfat production. started operations at their present farm. Martin kept culling the herd of the low producers, kept working to better manage the good producers, and the result is a herd that exceeds the state average. Where 12,310 pounds is the average in the top DHIA herds, Martin's animals average 13,773 pounds. And Martin's herd came out right on the nose in butterfat production among the top ten per cent of the herds of the state. The average 334 pounds.

Martin feeds his cows more grain than average. The state average is 3,582 pounds of roughage per cow. Martin provides 4,257 pounds. He goes a little under onilage, 5,184 pounds per cow for the Martin herd compared to 7,337 pounds average in the state, but he gives more grain, 4,107 pounds, as compared to the 3,500-pound state average.

The Martin herd is now all Holstein—Martin joins most dairy men in the county in preferring Holsteins above others because they give more milk. But Guernseys once made up a portion of his herd.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Martin give a daughter, Suzanne, 14, much of the credit for making the Martin herd one of the top ones in the county. The Martins believe in keeping the herd comfortable and Suzanne has a gentle way with the cows that helps keep the herd one of the quietest in the county.

The Martins believe that a bawling cow has something the matter with it, and Mrs. Martin says her husband will get out of bed in the middle of the night to go to the barn if he hears a cow bawling.

Do upbreeding of the herd, good and careful care making the cows comfortable and good feeding pay off? Ask the Martins. With nine years of experience during which they continuously have improved their herd they are thoroughly convinced that good management pays well.

Million Dairy Cows In The State Produce Six, One Half Billion Lbs. Of Milk

One million dairy cows on Pennsylvania's 40,000 commercial dairy farms produce six and one half billion pounds of milk per year, according to County Agent Frank S. Zettle. On a daily basis the farmers handle 18 million pounds of milk requiring 220,000 forty-quart cans which weigh a total of five and one half million pounds.

The amount of physical labor going into this production is staggering. An analysis of miles walked reveals that the average dairyman walks four miles per cow per day, as he carries milk to the milk house and returns to the barn. On Pennsylvania's 40,000 dairy farms the attendants walk a total of four million miles a year.

Activities other than milk handling also add to the physical effort of milk production. The average cow, for example, consumes about two tons of hay, three and one half tons of silage and a little more than one and one half of grain per year. She also requires about three fourths tons of bedding and produces 15 tons of manure with eight and one half tons of it requiring barn removal while the balance is dropped on pasture as she grazes during the appropriate season.

Keeping Barn Clean
Additionally, the daily chore of keeping the barn clean is time consuming. Sweeping, liming, walks and feed alleys and cleaning hay mangers on a yearly basis involves 29.8 billion square feet and requires about 312,000 miles of walking.

For these reasons many dairy men are interested in remodeling their facilities to eliminate some of the work load that exists. Plans for automation in handling

CLEAN YARDS CURB MASTITIS

Mastitis never takes a holiday, and an unpaved barnyard, knee-deep in mud and manure is one of the reasons why this is true. Paving on the other hand keeps cows cleaner and cuts down on barn work.

Mud on teats and udder from an unpaved barnyard may cause chapping and cracking and this irritation may lead to mastitis. By paving there is no mud and manure and bedding stays drier and cleaner since it is not tracked into the barn by the cows.

Paving also aids in producing quality milk. There is less dirt or udders because of cleaner bedding and feet and less time need be spent in washing the udder prior to milking. With less dust and dirt there is a better chance of producing clean milk. Paving also helps to advertise a product that is good for every one. When tourists (consumers) pass a farm they do not see shiny bulk tanks or spotless milkers or the sanitary practices or clean barn interiors. What they see is the external portion of the barn and many times this is not conducive to milk drinking. A paved barnyard can change that picture.

Much of this work as well as efficient barn design can be secured at the county agent's office in the court house, Baltimore St.

MORE MILK IS BEING SHIPPED IN BULK TANKS

By THOMAS E. PIPER
Area Marketing Agent

The increasing value of milk being shipped from bulk tanks in Adams County is an appropriate sign of the times. According to a USDA survey for the United States more milk was delivered in bulk than in cans to markets regulated by Federal Orders during 1958. The trend toward more bulk installations is in keeping with the objective to increase efficiency in the dairy farm operation.

Adams County dairy herds included 14,000 cows, two years of age and over on January 1, 1959, according to estimates by the State Crop Reporting Service. Cash receipts from dairy products and surplus livestock returned approximately $5 million to local farmers in 1957. In that year the dairy enterprise was responsible for about 25 per cent of the total farm income in this county.

Shifts In Marketing

Shifts in marketing and in market requirements occur continuously and will become more compelling. Marketing agencies need and will obtain more standardized products in larger volume and what are more continuously available. This would imply that market outlets for off grade products and the small irregular volumes from small or part time farms will not find ready markets except at sharply lower prices.

Fluid milk substitutes are being developed. If a flavorful concentrated milk can be processed in Wisconsin and shipped east for a third or less of the present cost of shipping fresh whole milk, local prices will be forced down. Justification for our present system of classified pricing has been that milk is so perishable that a surplus is not only unavoidable but is necessary to take care of fluctuations in sales and production.

Bulky, Perishable

Each market has been thought to need its own surplus since milk is too bulky and too perishable for long distance transportation and so susceptible to contamination that each city health department might reasonably insist on supervising its own supply. Technological developments are rapidly modifying these characteristics of milk. The trend is toward their diminishing importance as guarantors of an economic advantage of local milk production. We cannot predict when this will occur. Adjustments to these forces may be made gradually or abruptly after sufficient pressures have built up to destroy the artificial protective devices.

Price Competition

Changes in the fluid milk market will compel Adams County farmers to compete price-wise more closely than they do now with milk production in the Midwest. This will require a concentration of effort on the part of the dairyman equally on four efficiency factors: labor, machinery, crops and livestock. It is desirable for each individual producer to understand how Federal and State Marketing Orders operate and what they are designed to accomplish so as to realize their importance to the stability of his business.

Adams County dairymen are in a good position to compete. The close proximity to the Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and other local markets provide good outlets for local production and on the basis of quality and continuous volume as outlined above their place in the market will be maintained.

J. Henry Kneller, R. 5, Has Best Herd In County In Butterfat Production; Has Averaged 547 Pounds

J. Henry Kneller, Gettysburg, R. 5, has a tender regard for the 12 cows in his herd, but a very mercenary viewpoint in its management. The result: he has the top herd in the county in butterfat production.

Kneller's Guernseys last year produced an average of 547 pounds of butterfat, 11,370 pounds of milk.

All of his herd, including those fresh for the first time, produced more than 8,000 pounds of milk; 28 exceeded 10,000 pounds and 14 went over the 12,000-pound mark. All produced more than 400 pounds of butterfat including those fresh for the first time: 24 exceeded the 500-pound mark and 14 gave more than 600 pounds of butterfat.

His secret? Good management, good feeding, — and get rid of the poor producers.

Cow Must Produce

Kneller's viewpoint is simple. A cow must produce milk worth $200 more than its feed cost. That $200 takes care of the overhead. Then you add about $100 to take care of the repairs to the barn, paint, general maintenance and improvements. Then if you get anything above that figure you are getting into profit. Kneller believes that cows ought to return a profit to their owner. As he puts it: "There's only one way you are going to get anything from the farm and that's from the cows. If they produce you pay off the mortgage. If they don't there's no place else where you can get the money you need. So why board cows that aren't giving you a profit?"

Kneller was located near Philadelphia and his background was mostly Holsteins when he decided to seek a location where he could sell "Golden Guernsey" milk. He searched through several states, finally decided to locate in Adams County and settled down on the farm he now owns.

Is Well Pleased

He's well pleased with his Guernseys, but he also can keep close tabs on Holsteins, for his farm adjoins the Andrew Martin farm, where one of the best Holstein herds in the county is located.

Kneller buys replacements in his herd "by the record." He Comfortable cows give more milk and the herd of J. Henry Kneller, R. 5, shows that it can really become comfortable. When Kneller and his assistant and the photographer entered the barn nearly all of the Guernseys were lying down. buys nothing that doesn't have a record showing 400-pound fat and 9,000-pound milk production.

Even when he thought he was most disappointed, he found that buying on the records paid off.

A herd had run down, but the records showed high production. Kneller bought some of the cows, brought them to his farm. The more he looked at the animals, the more he regretted his purchase. The cows may have been bred from high producers, may have had good records looked like anything but producers.

Seeks Profitable Herd

Kneller stayed with the cows, however, and with the care he gave them they soon were producing among the top animals in his herd.

And Kneller doesn't take long to show its stuff from the fust, or else it goes to someone else.

That way, he finds, a herd can continue profitable operation — without boarders taking up all the profit.

He also checks production records for another reason. Even though a cow may be producing fairly well, if a better producer that can be secured he takes the replacement. "Why keep a cow that is only fair when you can keep one that is better?" is another motto of the Kneller farm.

in Federal Order markets in the months ahead is uncertain. This will depend upon administrative decisions which will be based on public hearings now underway.

Bulk tank installations are being made at a faster rate than in previous years. Some of this interest is the result of obsolescence occurring in can coolers and in the receiving facilities of some handlers.

Barn remodeling and expansion are continued on local dairy farms and signals an increased capacity to produce milk. Some farmers are going out of the dairy business while others are expanding their herd size. Expanding production by those remaining in the business has more than offset the volume of those quitting.

Cost-Price Squeeze

Increased efficiency is the key to profitable dairying in these days of an increasing cost-price squeeze. Why not cull more closely and practice the very best management you know how? Many labor saving practices can be practiced at no cost to you and membership in the Dairy Herd Improvement Association could be your wisest investment all year.

And to make the outlook for your dairy business a bit brighter in 1960, do some promotion of your own product. Remember, milk is the best food bargain on the market today. At 24 to 26 cents a quart, it costs 12 to 13 cents a pound. No food of comparable value can be bought for so low a price. The quality and price of milk are dependent upon the efficient handling of the product from the farm to the consumer's doorstep.

It is estimated that at least 600 different species of fish can be caught in the Atlantic and Gulf coastal waters off Florida.

Most of the markets receiving Pennsylvania milk have experienced an increase in sales of fluid milk. The year 1959 provided some good increases in Class I sales in contrast with 1958 when a cool summer retarded the growth of fluid milk sales. Sales of Class I milk cannot be expected to expand in 1960 unless a greater effort is made in promotion.

Milk Price Uncertain

The price which producers receive for milk going into fluid use is expected to be only a "breather," as renewed production increases are expected by mid-1960, or later.

Lower beef prices will make culling of poor producers from the milking herd less attractive.

In addition, heavy supplies of feed grains will tend to promote heavier concentrate feeding which in turn will increase milk output. A record corn crop and adequate roughage supplies are on hand. The bright spot in the dairy outlook is the low level of CCC storage stocks. Surplus butter stocks have been depleted and uncommitted stocks of cheese and non-fat dry milk have been reduced to very low levels. This current national supply situation is believed to be only a "breather," as renewed production increases are expected by mid-1960, or later.

RAISING DAIRY HEIFERS WILL AVERAGE $338

Raising dairy heifers costs money, and it's much more than most dairymen think. Starting with an initial investment of $30 for the calf, a New Jersey study found that it cost another $218 for feed and $108 for labor and other items. Thus, the total cost of raising a dairy heifer to 28 months of age, average at first calving, amounts to $356, less an allowance of $18 for manure produced, or a net cost of $338.

Figures were obtained from 50 farms surveyed for cost data and there were wide differences between farms. The 15 farms with the highest costs averaged $

Philosophy Of Work Is Cited By Clergyman

By
REV. W. E. FENSTERMAKER
Pastor, Methodist Church
OUR PHILOSOPHY OF WORK

One of the most important factors in the life of every individual is work. Since the beginning of time man has learned that to continue life there are certain laws which require him to expend energy, expend it through the use of his brain or his brawn.

Since it is a recognized essential part of our lives ought we then not have a proper philosophy of work?

We all know people living about us whose entire outlook on life and entire waking hours are spent in bemoaning the hard lot that is theirs. We all witness in our daily contacts with our fellow beings those who carry out their duties grudgingly and without any enthusiasm. By the same token we also encounter those persons who are carefree, happy and expend untold extra energy to serve us. What makes the difference?

Must Want To Work
Marcus Aurelius (who lived 120-180) wrote in "The Meditations" much about work that applies in the 20th century as it did in his day.

Aurelius believed that first of all a person must want to work, not work because he has to. He must seek personal satisfaction and not work simply for the material value derived. He must work daily with some ultimate aim or goal in mind. If he plants seeds he must look forward to the cultivation and eventually the harvest. At harvest this labor will be consummated in finding its way to a hungry mouth.

Some find their work distasteful because they do not attain the fame and applause they feel they deserve. Aurelius wrote of this, "See how soon everything is forgotten, and look at the chaos of infinite time on each side of the present, and the emptiness of applause, and the changeableness and want of judgment in those who pretend to give praise."

"Sacredness In Work"
Thomas Carlyle, a much later writer (1795-1881), in his writings "Past and Present" expresses many of the same points as Marcus Aurelius but in addition he says, "There is a perennial nobleness, and even sacredness, in work."

One of the strong points which Carlyle stresses in his philosophy is that of doing a job well. Regardless how small the task or how insignificant, if work does not exemplify one's best it is a discredit to the individual. He asserts that one can usually judge pretty well the character of a person by the work he produces. A poor quality of workmanship usually indicates a poor quality of person. How often we find this to be true in our "mass production" type of furniture and housewares. The old cabinet maker who produced the lovely antique corner cupboard standing in your dining room produced a thing of real beauty and lasting quality because he carried through the entire operation from start to finish. He did not depend upon the others on the assembly line to gloss over and cover up his mistake or carelessness. He had a sacredness in his work.

Destiny In Life
Man is given a destiny or an aim in life through work. No matter what the work is, if it accomplishes some good end or makes some improvement in the world, then work is worth doing and the individual will have carried out the aim and intention of God. Labor as life and in labor, other qualities or desirable traits are brought out of the individual. Through labor, patience, perseverance and courage are worked out, perfected and improved.

"Blessed is he who has found his work; let him ask no other blessedness."

WHEN A MAN HAS A

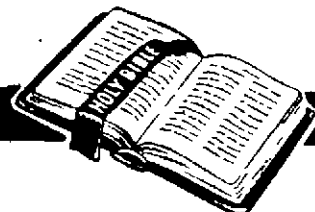

BROTHER

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship.

It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	I John	2	9-12
Monday	I John	4	20-21
Tuesday	Romans	12	9-10
Wednesday	Proverbs	17	17
Thursday	I Corinthians	16	13-14
Friday	John	10	9-10
Saturday	Psalms	55	13-14

A man's got to look after his brother. That's what Timmy said the other day, as he stood beside our baby. And I told him he was right. "You are so much stronger than this tiny, little creature," I said. "From now on, you've got a real responsibility!"

A man does have to look after his brother . . . especially when that brother is weak. But there are moments, too, when even the strongest man may need a brother!

In the eyes of the Church, all men are brothers, just as all men are equally beloved. As long as there is a church near you, you are not alone. You have only to open the door and walk in and you will be at one with your fellow man . . . and at home with your brothers.

SAYS MORE GAS TAX IS NEEDED FOR ROAD WORK

HARRISBURG (AP)—Highways Secretary Park H. Martin said today long-range road planning cannot go ahead in Pennsylvania as long as the Legislature holds out on an increase in the gasoline tax.

He urged the Highway Material Producers' conference to support Gov. Lawrence in plans to renew a request for a cent-a-gallon gasoline levy boost in the 1961 Legislature.

"The heart of the state-federal highway construction program is in the gasoline tax, even if a portion of it must be siphoned off to the counties and the townships," he said.

Must Have Money

"If there is going to be a highway program of the magnitude I have outlined, there must be an increase in the gasoline tax."

He spoke in terms of spending 250 million dollars a year over a 12-year period.

The Republican-controlled Senate last year bottled up the gasoline tax increase as unnecessary.

Not "Padded"

"In an expansive economy," said Martin, "when our people are in an expansive frame of mind, when expenditures for personal use consumer goods are reaching record totals, failure to spend with equal expansiveness on public services verges on irresponsibility."

The highways secretary said his 250-million-dollar-a-year figure was not padded to impress the public or the State Legislature. It would permit to be done only what had to be done, he added.

Martin explained that the extra 25 million dollars from a cent-a-gallon boost in the gasoline levy would yield 25 million in federal funds for some highways and as much as 270 millions for interstate roads.

Woman's Community Club Skit, Rotary Club And Junior Women Win Awards

BETTING OPERATION IS RAIDED

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Three persons face gambling charges following simultaneous raids in West Philadelphia and nearby Pennsauken, N. J., in what police called a one-million dollar a year betting operation.

A special squad of 15 Philadelphia officers Thursday confiscated a betting sheet, a large safe and gambling equipment in a private home here. At the same time New Jersey state police raided a home near Route 130.

Police said at both places they manned telephones and recorded horse racing and numbers bets.

New Jersey police arrested Arthur (Arch) Luzzi, 36, and charged him with possession of numbers slips and bookmaking.

Tried To Swallow Bets
Judge Benjamin Dzik of Camden County Court ordered Luzzi held under $10,000 bail.

Albert Scaperotti, 51, and his wife, Louise, 49, were found in the Philadelphia home.

Officers said Mrs. Scaperotti was trying to swallow a piece of paper with 70 bets on it but they forced her to disgorge it.

However, the Scaperottis were allowed to remain home when a police surgeon confirmed their claim they were suffering from a virus infection and should not be taken from the house.

DEFENDS AIR PILOTS IN PAIR OF TRAGEDIES

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Airline Pilots Assn. investigator says Federal Aviation Administrator E. R. Quesada has falsely blamed pilots for two recent aircraft tragedies, including one near Williamsport, Pa.

"His comments have no basis in fact," declared John R. McDonald Thursday.

He referred to a magazine interview in which Quesada was quoted as saying prescribed procedures were not followed in the two crashes.

Hints At Heart Attack
In a copyrighted interview, U. S. News & World Report quoted the FAA chief as saying established procedures were not followed in the crash of an Allegheny Airlines 202 near Williamsport last Dec. 1 and of a Piedmont Airlines DC 3 near Charlottesville, Va. last Oct. 30.

The Allegheny crash killed 25 persons while 26 died in the Piedmont disaster.

Oscar Bakke, head of the Civil Aeronautics Board's Safety Section, has said the Allegheny co-pilot apparently suffered a heart attack.

Falsely Accused
Citing the report and what he said was evidence of a weak low frequency marker in the area of the Piedmont crash, McDonald added:

"If these were not contributing factors, I don't know what are. I believe Mr. Quesada is falsely accusing two dead pilots. His comments have no basis in fact. Anyone familiar with the CAB hearing transcripts would know so."

In a political vein, Mitchell attacked the Democrats and blamed them for the shelving of civil rights legislation. He said this was an example of what the nation can expect from a Democratic president.

S. News & World Report quoted the FAA chief as saying established procedures were not followed in the crash of an Allegheny Airlines 202 near Williamsport last Dec. 1 and of a Piedmont Airlines DC 3 near Charlottesville, Va. last Oct. 30.

The Allegheny crash killed 25 persons while 26 died in the Piedmont disaster.

Oscar Bakke, head of the Civil Aeronautics Board's Safety Section, has said the Allegheny co-pilot apparently suffered a heart attack.

Falsely Accused
Citing the report and what he said was evidence of a weak low frequency marker in the area of the Piedmont crash, McDonald added:

"If these were not contributing factors, I don't know what are. I believe Mr. Quesada is falsely accusing two dead pilots. His comments have no basis in fact. Anyone familiar with the CAB hearing transcripts would know so."

25 Million More Jobs Predicted

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell says another 15 million jobs will be added to America's economy by 1970.

He forecasts national production will rise to 750 billion dollars—"a really astonishing figure."

Mitchell was the main speaker here Wednesday night for a fund-raising "Dinner With Ike," one of scores held across the country in 83 cities.

"We can look forward to a continuous stable increase in our economic growth in the coming 10 years—one large enough to meet our domestic needs and world responsibilities," Mitchell declared.

In a political vein, Mitchell attacked the Democrats and blamed them for the shelving of civil rights legislation. He said this was an example of what the nation can expect from a Democratic president.

Meets Top Requirements

The air handling technique developed and incorporated in the new Myers air sprayer line will meet and satisfy the most demanding requirements. All component parts that go into a Myers air sprayer are quality-checked to insure maximum efficiency and durability.

The all-important centrifugal fans are rigidly tested for air-handling efficiency, discharge capacity and durability. Myers 232, 227 and 225 series air sprayers have as standard equipment, twin centrifugal fans with full-sized inlet cones for large air intake capacity. The air is drawn into the cone area and is turned 90 degrees into the fan blades, which eliminates the need for turning vanes. The fan blades, with their high air handling efficiency, deliver a high volume of air at penetrating velocities directly into the tree foliage.

This Myers' air-handling technique gives air sprayer performance that really penetrates. Really covers, really protects! The twin centrifugal fans are mounted on a large precision ground shaft in perfect balance for smooth performance and long life. The blower shaft is supported by self-aligning bearings, pre-lubricated and sealed for life.

Versatility Great Asset

Versatility of performance to overcome adverse spraying conditions is an important requirement.

ment for successful air spraying. Myers air sprayers have this versatility. You can spray from both sides of the machine simultaneously or close off other side without loss of air volume or velocity. Tapered air outlets, high pressure pump, drive-mist nozzles and greater air volume combine to provide penetration needed to properly protect all areas of the tree.

Myers sprayer tanks are doubly protected from rust and corrosion by the Myers non-checking, non-cracking "fire-cured" Epoxy coating. Quality construction throughout and "fire-cured" Epoxy coating means longer tank life by virtually eliminating serious rust problems. Durability has been proven by many years of "field-tested" service to agriculture and industry.

Greater Tank Durability

To achieve this miracle finish, Myers are welded steel tanks are first thoroughly cleaned and degreased. Next, tanks are given a light acid etch followed by a neutralizing treatment, then submerged in chromic acid to condition the tanks for the double Epoxy coating. Each coating is "fire-cured" by baking in Myers specially designed tank ovens. This bonded Epoxy surface withstands the abrasive and corrosive action of all modern chemicals used in orchard, grove, vegetable and general crop protection programs.

Two centrifugal fans deliver 80,000 CFM of air at velocities of 70 to 90 miles per hour for two-way orchard or grove spraying. This high volume of air is delivered directly off fan blades into tree foliage. With this exclusive air handling technique, no useful air velocity is lost by turning

RACING GROUP MAY SEEK A COURT ANSWER

HARRISBURG (AP)—The newly sworn State Harness Racing Commission probably will ask the Justice Department to decide on whether more than four harness tracks may have parimutuel betting.

The question was raised Thursday minutes after Commonwealth Secretary John S. Rice administered the oath of office to Chairman Lawrence B. Sheppard of Hanover and Commissioners Edward J. Kane of Philadelphia and Martin J. Cusick of Sharpsville. They are non-salaried.

Roy Schafer, legislative secretary to Gov. Lawrence, pointed out to Sheppard the 1959 law authorizing parimutuel betting specifies up to four corporations, not four tracks, may be authorized to conduct parimutuel betting. Approval of the voters in a primary election is required in counties where a parimutuel track is proposed.

"Does that mean that there could be more than four tracks," Sheppard asked.

Schafer advised the commissioner to seek an immediate opinion from the Justice Department.

Identical Surgery For Father, Son

GLENDALF Calif. (AP) — James Watts, 18, was scheduled to undergo surgery for a ruptured spinal disc.

A few days before the operation, his father, Lory Watts, 41, felt acute pain in his back. A doctor told him he had the same affliction as his son.

As they wheeled the younger Watts out of the operating room Thursday his father waved at him — on the way in.

Both are recovering.

$200,000 BLAZE

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP) — A general alarm fire Thursday destroyed the former Euston Lead Co. plant here.

No one was reported hurt. The building had been vacant for some time.

No estimate of the damage was given. The building was valued at $200,000. Cause of the fire has not been determined.

NEW YORK (AP) — A large number of swastikas were painted on the Glendale Baptist church in Queens Wednesday night and buckets of red paint were splashed on the stucco front of the building. The Rev. Stewart Bain, pastor, blamed the mess on juvenile hoodlums.

Travel teaches toleration, said Disraeli, who was twice prime minister of Great Britain.

2 RECOVERING FROM WOUNDS; ONE CRITICAL

JERSEY CITY, N. J. (AP) — Two members of a family who were critically wounded by a rejected suitor improved today, but a third remained on the danger list.

They were shot by William Funicello, 42, who then killed himself. Funicello fired at his former girlfriend, her mother and her father in their apartment Thursday, then turned the gun on himself.

Mrs. Beatrice Athanas, 50, remained on the danger list, although she was listed in fair condition. Jersey City Medical Center reported.

Was Married

Her daughter, Bessie, 33, and her husband, George, 37, were listed in satisfactory condition.

Police said Miss Athanas had stopped seeing Funicello some months ago because he was married and had three children.

He was separated from his wife, Angelina, who operates a candy store in New York.

Funicello smashed in the door to the Athanas apartment on the third floor and shot the parents with a .22 caliber revolver. Miss Athanas was shot, police said, when she apparently ran into the

J. And L. Earnings Topped '58 Total

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Despite the crippling 116-day nationwide steel strike, Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. recorded a net income 27 per cent higher in 1959 than in 1958.

J. & L., the fourth largest steel producer in the nation, said Thursday its net income last year was $29,485,000, equal to $3.58 a share. For 1958 net income was $23,198,000 or $2.79 a share.

Avery C. Adams, the firm's board chairman and president, listed 1960 capital expenditures at $5 million dollars. He added:

"This increase (in net profits) was recorded despite the fact that the corporation operated a 61 per cent of capacity and was subjected to four strikes in July, a major industry-wide strike which lasted 116 days and a slow startup of operations in November because of major deferred repair and maintenance projects."

NANTUCKET, Mass. (AP)—At the age of 92, George E. Grimes doesn't feel he is too old to seek his 11th three-year term as town assessor. He announced his candidacy for the coming election Thursday night.

Funicello fatally shot himself in the head with the ninth and final bullet in the revolver. He carried an additional 50 rounds of ammunition with him, police said.

TRAINMEN IN VOTE FIGHT

CLEVELAND (AP) — The 1,100 delegates to the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen convention here were ready today to plunge into the showdown fight between W. P. Kennedy and William J. Weil for the presidency of the 200,000 member union.

Supporters of Kennedy, head of the union since 1949, sought a vote at today's session of the convention, which opened Jan. 4.

Backers of the 51-year-old Weil, who has been general secretary-treasurer of the union since 1954, hope to hold off the vote until next week and in the interim attack administration of the 67-year-old Kennedy. The Weil forces say younger leadership is needed to provide more aggressiveness and militancy.

Officers of the delegates elect will serve four years.

One of the convention delegates died Thursday of a heart ailment. He was J. J. Taylor, 63, of Lodge 1239, Ottawa, a yard conductor for the Canadian Pacific Railroad.

EASIER-TO-LOAD LUGGAGE COMPARTMENT — The trunk sill is lower and the lid opening is more than a foot and a half wider than Chevy's nearest competitor's. There's over 20% more usable space!*

MORE ROOM WHERE YOU WANT MORE ROOM — Chevy's trimmed down transmission tunnel (25% smaller) gives you more foot room. You also get more head and hip room than in any other 2- or 4-door sedans in the field.

WIDEST CHOICE OF POWER TEAMS — A choice of 24 engine-transmission teams in all — to satisfy the most finicky driving foot. There are seven engines with output all the way up to 335 h.p. and five silk-smooth transmissions.

The more you look around the more you'll find to convince you that no other low-priced car has so much to show for your money as this new Chevrolet. Here's the kind of styling sophistication and subtle detail that only Fisher Body craftsmanship can create. Here's the kind of Full Coil comfort that neither of the other two leading low-priced cars—and only some of the smoothest riding higher priced ones—build into their suspension systems. Here's more room inside (where you want it) without an inch more outside (where you don't want it). And with all these advances Chevy has managed to hold the price line! BLONDIE

HERB WOULD YOU LIKE TO GO TO A STAG PARTY WITH ME AT MY LODGE TONIGHT?

I HAVE TO SPEAK TO MY WIFE

AND TONS OF SNOW AND ICE—AND WE WERE BARELY INCHES FROM ITS PATH!

AND ALL BECAUSE I FIRED A PISTOL!

BUT I GUESS THOSE WOLVES THAT WERE LURKING AROUND WON'T COME TRIFLING WITH US ANYMORE!

JAYCEES WILL HEAR SENATOR

George E. Snyder, 31, state senator from Harrisburg, addressed the Taneytown Jaycees Thursday evening at the Taney Inn when the group observed its annual "Bosses' Night" program. Active in a variety of fields, Snyder has excelled in civic activities as a member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce in a number of capacities. He served the Hagerstown group as president, later served as state president, national membership chairman and on the board of directors of the national Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The Women's Guild and Men's Brotherhood of Emmaus United Church of Christ held a monthly meeting Thursday night, January 21, at the Taney Inn. The program was planned by the Education Department. Mrs. Denton Wanz, chairman, introduced the theme, "The Meaning of Christmas." Those taking part in the program were Mr. and Mrs. Allen Morelock, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Little and Noah Wareham.

During the business meeting the president called for reports from the department chairmen. Mrs. James Wanz, stewardship chairman, announced the Stewardship Contest and asked for church school teachers. The stewardship chairman in cooperation with the missionary chairman, Mrs. Stoner Fleagle, explained the Family Mission Festival February 14. The spiritual life chairman, Mrs. Lewis Baer, told about the Lenten Quiet Hour March 3. The Christian service chairman, Mrs. Herman Arrington, presented her projects for the year. She invited the members to sewing meetings which began January 13. Dedication of articles for World Service will be held April 3. In cooperation with the Spiritual Life Committee the Sacrificial Meal and Communion Service will take place April 14. The Education chairman presented program booklets with the year's programs, projects and special activities listed. An enjoyable fellowship hour followed with Mrs. Stanley Stonesifer and Mrs. Miles Reifsnider serving as hostesses.

The Ki-Wives met at Taney Inn Monday evening at 6:30 o'clock. The invocation was given by Mrs. Hazel Cluts. Group singing was led by Mrs. Daisy Pearl Reifsnider accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Esther Harner. The theme of the program was "To Know Ourselves." Each member was dressed as nearly as she could, to what she wore when she was seventeen. Prizes were awarded.
